REPORT

2017

The essential insight into the wellbeing of UK pets

Key findings

Over the last seven years, the PDSA Animal Wellbeing (PAW) Report has continued to track the health and wellbeing of UK pets. The PAW Report is based on the five welfare needs animals require to be healthy and happy, as detailed in the Animal Welfare Acts.

Despite some positive changes, it's clear there is still much work to be done to ensure the five welfare needs of pets are being met, and encourage responsible pet ownership.

This summary provides an overview of our key findings from our 2017 survey of pet owners in partnership with YouGov.

We surveyed:

- 2076 cat owners
- 1814 dog owners
- 263 rabbit owners

Dog Owners

1.2 million dogs (13%) have received no training at all

1.2 million dog owners (13%) did no research at all before taking on their pet

93,000 dogs are never walked at all

Almost 1.8 million dogs (19%) are left alone for five hours or more on a typical weekday

92% of dogs are registered with a vet

25% of dogs have not had a primary vaccination course when young

Cat owners

98% of cat owners underestimated the potential lifetime costs of cat ownership

On a scale of 1 to 5, 50% of cat owners matched images of Body Condition Score 4 or 5 to their cat's current body shape

62% of owners report they'd like to change one or more of their cat's behaviours

Over 4.3 million cats (42%) live in a multi-cat household

36% of cats are not microchipped

25% of rabbit owners feed rabbit muesli mix as part of their main diet

33% of rabbits are not being fed the correct amount of hay

44% of rabbit owners would like to change at least one of their rabbits' behaviours

56% of rabbits are still living alone

44% of rabbits have not been neutered

50% of rabbits have not had a primary vaccination course

32% of rabbits are not registered with a vet

Which Pet?

We believe that many of the welfare issues highlighted in this year's PAW Report start with a lack of pre-purchase research.

Our research identified 18% of pet owners did no research at all before taking on a new pet, and only 5% asked a vet or vet nurse for advice.

We think that veterinary teams are the key to changing this situation. If vets and vet nurses can engage with owners before they get a new pet, we hope they will be more likely to choose a pet that is suitable for them and to provide for that pet's five welfare needs.

We've developed our 'Which Pet?' consultation framework to help veterinary teams run pre-purchase advice clinics for pet owners across the UK. Clients can also be advised where to responsibly source a pet and how to avoid potential pitfalls, such as online adverts and puppy farms.

We want all potential pet owners to fully understand the needs of different species and breeds, choose the right pet from a responsible source, and understand how to give them a happy, healthy life.
